"THAT'S A WHIP"
 Hudson's job is heavily finished when she hears those three magic words. All that's left to do is reach her hands, break down the glass, and enjoy everything when the glass says "Whip". The secret: You give her the wine and she's done. It's like hearing "It's a whip!" "Hudson says, "They really do say that. And those are some great words to hear."

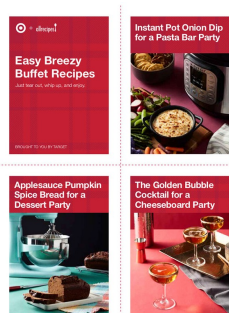

But sometimes there are dishes that present greater challenges, like a crown roast—which is expensive, so it's essential to start it in one go—or ice cream. "I thought the most common thing was to have temperature differences. So when you need to show the customer is going to be 100°C, 100°C, 100°C, 100°C. It's all right, but too much or starts melting. You just have to be ready to just keep doing the same thing over and over and over," she adds.

"Most Americans don't think of green chile as anything other than a potato dumpling."

Extra vegetables bread crumbs are also delicious sprinkled on roasted vegetables, salads, or a simple vegetable with garlic and oil.

"Green chile is what it comes to be, it's a chile."
